DEALER: Courtney Valentine-Brown

Jail term for drug dealer

A MAN caught hiding a haul of class A drugs in his sock has been jailed for nearly six years.

Courtney Valentine-Brown was stopped in Anerley Road, Westcliff, on May 18 last year at 6.10pm after fleeing from police.

PC Luke Gamman and PC Michael Brimfield, who are part of the Southend Tactical Team, had tried to stop him after becoming suspicious that he was dealing drugs.

Valentine-Brown tried to escape on a bicycle but was arrested and taken to Southend police station.

In custody Valentine-Brown handed over a small bag of herbal cannabis but became "agitated and aggressive" while being searched.

During a full search officers removed Valentine-Brown's sock, where he was found to be concealing 17 wraps of class A drugs - eight of heroin and nine of crack cocaine.

Valentine-Brown, 32, of Oakleigh Avenue, Southend, was charged with two counts of possession of a class A drug with intent to supply and possession of a class B drug.

He admitted the offences at Southend Crown Court and was sentenced to a total of five years and eight months in prison on Thursday, July 14.

Following the sentence, investigating officer PC Gamman said: "Valentine-Brown was found to be concealing a significant amount of class A drugs when he was searched in Southend custody. The court was satisfied he intended to peddle these drugs on the streets of Southend."

"The harm that these illegal substances cause to our community cannot be underestimated and therefore where we are made aware of those involved in the illegal drugs trade we will deal with them robustly."

Garages make way for first new houses in decades

BUILDING BONANZA

EXETER CLOSE: site for three new homes

By Pat Higgins

southend@yellowad.co.uk

SOUTHEND Council is bulldozing old garages to make way for its first new houses in decades.

The authority plans to provide 18 "affordable" homes on six redundant sites.

The £2.8million phased project, due to be completed by spring 2017, was given planning permission last year.

On Tuesday, councillors went to see how the first part of the scheme in Exeter Way, Shoeburyness, where two three bedroom homes and one two bedroom home are being built, is progressing.

The other sites are in Bulwark Road and Ashanti Close also located in Shoeburyness.

Mark Flewitt, executive councillor for housing, said: "I am delighted that this project is proceeding so well. Addressing housing need is well-documented across the country and in Southend it is greater than ever."

"The construction of 18 high quality homes for affordable rent is a substantial number that will make a real difference to local people, and shows the innovative nature of this council."

"This is the first time in decades that a project like this has been undertaken and I hope it will pave the way for further ambitious council housing schemes."

Builders DCB (Kent) Ltd started work on the site in March with the garage demolitions.

The homes are being built to Lifetime Homes, Secured by Design and the Code for Sustainable Homes Level 4 Standards with two of the ground floor flats in Ashanti Close being designed and built for use by disabled tenants

All the houses will all have off-street parking for two vehicles.

The parking adjacent to the new houses has been redesigned to improve parking provision for the surrounding residents and the area in front of the new Ashanti flats has been redesigned to provide additional parking for residents.

Eight three bedroom houses and five two bedroom flats are planned for Ashanti Close and two three bedroom homes for Bulwark Road.

Prostate cancer trial could cut hospital visits

Patients look set to benefit from more efficient treatment

By Pat Higgins

southend@yellowad.co.uk

CANCER patients at Southend Hospital could see their visits cut by 75 percent after it announced a trial to bring in more effective treatment.

The trial for patients undergoing treatment for prostate cancer is due to start soon.

Patients currently receive 38 individual deliveries of a dose called "fractions" over seven to eight weeks.

The number of deliveries is already set to be reduced to 20, but due to the new trial, called PACE (Prostate Advances in Comparative Evidence), it could be cut down to just five.

James Green, head of radiotherapy, said: "Thirty-eight doses is a lot and it has already been shown 20 fractions can give patients similar effect with no worse side-effects.

"The encouragement is that we can now deliver it in a shorter period of time, which we will be adopting."

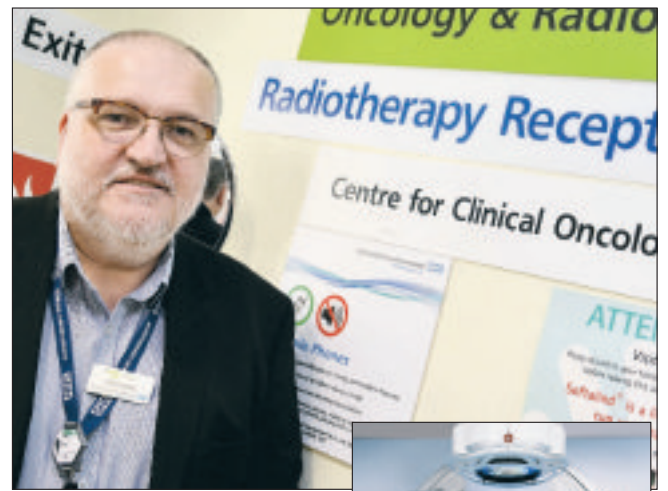

Research has found that the type of tumour cells found in the prostate tend to benefit from fewer, bigger doses of radiation.

The department will use a technique called stereotactic ablative body radiotherapy (SABR) for some early stage patients, to allow them to achieve this reduction to just five visits.

Mr Green added: "Prostate cancer is being detected in younger and active men, and men who have jobs.

"It isn't just the elderly. Having 38 visits is socially difficult to deal with, so for five fractions it is much more acceptable for patients, both in time and psychologically.

"As a state-of-the-art department we pride ourselves in being able to offer patients the full range of treatments, making sure local patients can access the latest treatment techniques."

Each of the five fractions will be longer and more complicated to give, but will end up being a huge benefit to patients.

The hospital hopes to begin the trial at the end of August and the treatment will be delivered by two Versa HD linac machines.

Inflatable display gets to the bottom of serious bowel and gut disease

A GIANT inflatable colon was used to help adults with learning difficulties recognise the signs and symptoms of bowel cancer and other diseases of the large intestine.

The demonstration was part of a public health and wellbeing event.

More than 200 visitors walked through the 7x4m replica of the human colon on Saturday, giving each of them a closer look at conditions such as polyps (growths) and Crohn's disease.

Sarah Haines, Southend Hospital's specialist nurse for learning disability, said: "Constipation and bowel problems are a real big issue for people with learning disability and can make people extremely ill. It isn't a subject that people easily feel they can talk about, so we wanted to focus on something fun to help improve awareness of bowel care.

MESSAGE: Sarah Haines, Southend Hospital's specialist nurse for learning disability, outside, and right, inside the inflatable colon

"The inflatable bowel really helped to bring the issue to life and visualised just what is going on in the tummy to promote conversation, debate and give people the confidence to talk about it with a fun yet educational introduction."

Around 300 people attended The Big Health Day at Southend Leisure and Tennis Centre, Garon Park.

The event was organised by Project 49, a community-based resource run by Southend Borough Council and South Essex Partnership University NHS Foundation Trust.

Take more care, say lifeboat crew

THE SOUTHEND lifeboat crew have issued a safety warning after being called out five times last weekend to rescue people from incoming tides.

On Saturday the search and rescue hovercraft was launched to help a family cut off by the incoming tide near to The Mulberry Harbour.

It was launched again on Sunday evening at 7.30pm, initially to look for two missing children at Thorpe Bay, who were found safe and well shortly after.

The crew was then called to three people in danger of being cut off by the flooding tide, to the east of The Mulberry Harbour, around a mile from shore.

Later, it was sent to two

Next the hovercraft went to assist a man west of the pier, waist deep in water, suffering cuts to his feet, having difficulty getting ashore and in danger from the flooding tide.

John Foster, volunteer lifeboat operations manager said "It is great to see so many people making the best of the long awaited sunshine and the lovely beaches here.

"But we ask them to be more vigilant – to check local tides and weather conditions, and wear suitable footwear on the mud. "We ask parents, too, to make sure they know where their children are at all times.

"School summer holidays are approaching and we want everybody to stay safe while enjoying the water."

THIRD ARREST OVER SHOOTING

A THIRD person has been arrested in connection with a shooting in Southend.

A 23-year-old man from London was found with a shotgun wound to the stomach in Southchurch Road at 12.45am on April 18. He is believed to have been attacked near the Malvern Flats block.

Two men – a 19-year-old from Southend and an 18-year-old from Leigh-on-Sea – were arrested on suspicion of attempted murder and are currently on bail until August 11, pending further enquiries.

Now a 20-year-old woman from Southend, was arrested on July 12 on suspicion of attempted murder and affray. She has been released on bail until September 21.

Anyone with information about the incident can call DC Tara Shepherd on 101, or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111 or www.crimestoppers-uk.org

Sisters swim for hospice caring for their mum

TWO sisters are set to dive into the annual fundraising Great Pier Swim to help the hospice which cares for their mum.

Lauren and Shelley Sipos hope to collect more than £3,000 from their 3.3km open water swim between Chalkwell and Jubilee beaches.

Mum Sue Porter, 55, from Southchurch, has been going to Havens Hospice day centre in Westcliff since February and her daughters have been impressed by the treatment she receives.

Sue was diagnosed with peritoneal mesothelioma, a rare form of cancer that affects the lining of the abdomen, in October 2014.

Doctors told her a year later nothing more could be done. She was given two weeks to live but has exceeded her life expectancy while receiving treatment from Havens.

Lauren said: "Mum really looks forward to her visits to day care. She's made friends there and they do all sorts of activities, arts and crafts, receive treatments such as reflexology and generally have a good old natter. They also arrange days out mum can go on with a friend or family member, such as a spa day and a drink and canapé day, so she can spend some quality time with people she loves in a relaxed atmosphere."

Shelley said: "We wanted to give something back to this amazing charity, so have decided to complete the Great Pier Swim. Straight after the swim we are holding a fundraising event at The Castle pub along the seafront with music, face-painting, a raffle and much more."

"Everyone is welcome to come along or donate any raffle prizes if they are unable to attend."

Registration for the Great Pier Swim closes on EAGER pupils at a Shoebury school competed fiercely at their sports day for a prize money can't buy – no lessons all afternoon. Key Stage 2 youngsters at Friars Primary school divided into their four houses – named after UK castles Sterling, Stormount, Windsor and Caernarfon – as they challenged each other to running, egg and spoon, space hopper and sack races. Sterling won most points and can now look forward to a half a day's playtime as their prize.

This year's festival runs over three weekends in Southend from July 30 to August 14, and includes a pop-up art gallery in Victoria Plaza.

There is set to be 12 hours of live music at O'Neill's in High Street on the first weekend, from July 30-31.

An evening with a "dangerous poetry" reading is also at O'Neill's on Saturday, August 6, with an art barbecue with music at the Railway Hotel, Clifftown Road on the Sunday.

The final weekend starts with Circus of Sin – Sadie's Burlesque at O'Neill's on Friday, August 12.

Then there is two days of Seaside Frolics when a giant hoarding will be put on the seafront for everyone to practise their graffiti art.

Artist John Bulley, who is one of the festival organisers, said: "We are expecting graffiti artists from London, as well as the locals, and will particularly welcome people with learning difficulties – anyone at all can come and have a go."

Walk for Wards to help patient care

SUPPORTERS of Southend Hospital can raise cash for their favourite ward by joining the Walk for Wards, a 7km seafront hike on Sunday, September 18.

The fundraising walkers will leave Uncle Tom's Cabin,

Shoeburyness, at 10am, for Chalkwell shelter with fancy dress optional.

Last year, more than £9,000 was raised for 23 different areas at the hospital, all helping patient care, such as oncology and paediatrics, the day stay unit fund and the diabetes fund. To register visit www.shcwalkforwards2016.eventbrite.co.uk, call the fundraising team for an application form on 01702 385337 or email fundraising@southend.nhs.uk.

Winning beach hut designers

TWO schoolchildren unveiled their winning designs for Southend's beach hut "galleries" on Monday.

Ten huts have been earmarked on the pier to showcase the borough's art, music and heritage – and Sophia Dickinson, 10, from Chalkwell Hall Junior School and Felix Vaufrourard, eight, from Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Primary School produced designs to decorate two of them.

Their work was chosen from 305 entries from six Southend schools.

The other eight huts will be decorated by artists then used for exhibitions to display artefacts from the Southend Museum collections, art, archive film and audio installations. One beach hut will be transformed into a small stage.

Ann Holland, executive councillor for culture, said: "These eye-catching beach huts offering unusual things to see and do, will give residents and visitors even more reason to come to the pier this year."

"It is such a central landmark it is absolutely the ideal place to locate these quirky beach huts presenting a spectrum of Southend's original art, heritage and community contribution".

Metal, the international arts organisation in Chalkwell Park, is spearheading the scheme in conjunction with local artists.

NEWS IN BRIEF

● LEIGH Lions Club has sponsored a mobile defibrillator to be installed next to Partners Hairdressers in Leigh Road.

Lay responders or bystanders can use it successfully with little or no training.

Immediate defibrillation can be the difference between life and death.

The chance of survival after the heart stops beating falls by 10 percent for every minute without defibrillation.

The equipment will be unveiled and brought online for use on Tuesday, July 26.

● THE Forum Space will stage a mixed media exhibition by Elizabeth Ireland based on a Parisian ballet, with work created with fine liner, ink and marker pens. All the works are available to purchase.

The freelance fashion illustrator has a degree in fashion illustration and creates playful drawings inspired by different cultures, fashion eras and beauty.

In particular she draws on the elegance and character of the 1950s.

The show runs from Wednesday, July 27 to Tuesday, August 23 at the exhibition space in Elmer Square, Southend.

Handwriting skills boost

A SCHOOL has graduated from 'needs improvement' to 'good' for its teaching of handwriting.

Down Hall Primary School, Rayleigh, turned to handwriting specialists Start-Bee last year, and celebrated its recent success with a special handwriting assembly when pupils were awarded certificates.

English leader Bec Wakefield said: "Even in our digital age, children still have to hand write their SATs tests – it's so important for every child to master a clear, fluid, legible style."

Footie day's a winner

YOUNGSTERS from Hawkwell, Hullbridge and Leigh were among hundreds from across the county who took part in a community football event last week.

The Essex County FA Community Football Day was held at Great Baddow High School, Chelmsford, on Saturday, July 16.

Hawkwell Athletic, Hullbridge Sports Girls and the Leigh Ramblers were at the annual event, which included mini-matches, FA Skills Team training and an inflatable fun zone.

Boys and girls events were separated into morning and afternoon sessions.

Elsewhere, football 'freestyler' Colin Nell dazzled the crowds with his ball-juggling skills, while England and Watford Ladies stars Mollie Burgess and Phoebe Read signed autographs and answered questions.

Teams were made up of players from different clubs. Each game was focused on improving speed and accuracy – and to keep players on their toes, some matches were even played on an inflatable pitch.

Essex County FA Football development officer Danielle Warnes said: "We're so grateful to all the volunteers who helped to make this festival such a huge success."

ESSEX Police has pledged a zero-tolerance crackdown on time wasters who call 999.

The force said it received up to 400 inappropriate or hoax calls every month, which "could cause serious harm or death if they prevent us from hearing about real-life emergencies".

Chief Inspector Glen Pavelin, in charge of the force's control room, said: "It's not clever, it's not funny and it could well end up with you being arrested, fined and imprisoned."

As part of the More Time To Fight Crime campaign, the force has released audio recordings of inappropriate and abusive calls put through to its emergency control room.

They include a man who dialled 999 because there was a rat in his house and another who telephoned to swear at police officers.

Essex Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh said one resident had called to report an "offensive builder's bum".

Mr Pavelin said: "We take a zero-tolerance approach to hoax calls because they stop people who really need us from getting through."

"But we also want people to understand what is

Police chiefs take a zero-tolerance stance over 999 time wasters and isn't a police matter. We take hundreds of calls every month on issues like noise nuisance or parking problems, which can and should be resolved by local partners like councils.

"We will always try and help but, especially at summertime, our resources can be stretched."

"Knowing how to do things like report non-emergency crime online will give us more time to fight crime."

Mr Kavanagh said the force experienced a spike in demand in the summer, including a rise in incidents such as reports of missing people.

He said: "I have made sure extra resources are available to help keep Essex safe this summer, but I need the public to help."

"We get calls for everything from an 'offensive builder's bum' to murder and deaths on our road."

"If we can raise awareness of the non-policing matters that can be better resolved elsewhere, we free up time and people to tackle issues we know communities really need us for."

The force has designed a game to teach residents how they should report certain incidents. To play visit: <http://tinyurl.com/essex-police-crime-game>.

Close EU poll stirs strong feelings

I THINK it's fair to accept David Cameron's decision to make an EU referendum as part of the Conservatives' election promises because he believed this would gain votes, and he was probably correct.

What he did not believe was that the Leave voters would win.

The referendum, especially being so close, has given rise to strong feelings by the Remain voters.

Indeed you have already printed letters from both sides. Les Harrington's letters mention the dishonesty of the Brexit campaign and that the result should be void because of deceit and misrepresentation.

I assume he must believe the Remain campaign was entirely honest and above board, an assumption I expect would be disputed by A Nash in his letter regarding their fear tactics.

Surely Mr Harrington has lived through enough general elections not to accept all promises made by the various parties.

Mr Harrington also talks of the minimal margin of the vote, but does not say what he believes would not be a minimal margin.

Whichever way we look at the result, we have to accept 52 percent and 48 percent.

I also believe by the tone of his letters he would have been quite content if it was 52 percent 48 percent to remain.

Mind you, if that was the case there would be many Leave voters saying it was too close and there should be another referendum.

He also wishes for our elected representatives to have a vote in Parliament to determine the validity of the outcome.

Under our first past the post system I wonder how many of our elected representatives received more than 52 percent of the votes cast in their constituency at the general election.

Dave Williment

New homes will impact all our roads

ALTHOUGH not a councillor in Woking, I write as a Southend councillor in Shoeburyness ward in support of the objections by Woking residents, as quoted in the press in respect of the proposed 180 homes in Star Lane.

The extra homes, if allowed, would most definitely have an impact on the road infrastructure, especially onto the roads which have to go through Shoeburyness and Southend.

As far as I am aware, neither Taylor Wimpey or Rochford Council have consulted Southend Council on the current proposals, which, I suggest, should include a hefty 106 agreement financial offer for highway improvements to take traffic from the extra houses.

How can a development of this size only take emergency vehicles as quoted by Taylor Wimpey in the local paper? It sounds ridiculous.

I find it difficult to understand why Rochford Council is considering this development when through the years it has been averse to any suggestions for a bypass through its land from the east of Southend, yet keen to put extra traffic on Southend's roads. Perhaps it can explain its reasoning.

Mike Assenheim
Independent Councillor
Shoeburyness Ward

'Gentleman Jack' will be missed

THE sad passing of Jack King will be felt by many beyond his close family, but it is to these I offer deepest condolences.

I first met Jack when we became founder members of the new Castle Point District Council in 1973.

Labour had 20 members, just one more than the Tories so virtually everything was settled at long and arduous full council meetings.

Jack, a Tory but always the pragmatist, often agreed with us privately and sometimes publicly and always brought his infectious humour to events.

Later, when Labour ran the borough from 1995 to 2003, Jack's interests, particularly in Canvey Island Football Club, brought us back into contact.

We could disagree politically, but enjoy the fun of life.

I pay tribute to his and the family's quiet charitable assistance.

A true gentleman who will be missed.

Joe Cooke
Press and Diversity Officer
Castle Point Labour Party

We can't afford to stay nuclear

THERE is to be a Commons vote on July 18 to replace the current four Vanguard submarines.

Each sub carries eight American Trident ballistic missiles armed with up to 40 British nuclear warheads. Each warhead is around eight times more destructive than the Hiroshima bomb which killed 140,000 civilians.

By the 2030s when the new subs enter service, advances in sonar technology may well have made them obsolete.

Trident replacement including construction, maintenance and decommissioning, is estimated to cost £205 billion.

How can this huge expense be justified when the government's own advisors have identified climate change, cyber-attack, terrorism and energy shortages as the main threats to our security?

The money saved by not replacing Trident could be used for massive investment in renewable energy, marine industries, aerospace technology and nuclear decommissioning. The jobs created would help fund our hard-pressed NHS and essential community services.

Nuclear weapons are the only weapons of mass destruction not yet explicitly prohibited under international law. At the United Nations General Assembly on 7/12/2015, 139 of 168 nations voted to adopt the Humanitarian Pledge to prohibit and eliminate nuclear weapons. The UK voted against adoption.

We can afford to be a welfare state but financially, legally and morally we can no longer afford to be a nuclear weapons state.

Headaches for three Brexiteers

I AM a socialist and always will be. However, I was very impressed by Theresa May's inaugural speech, for it could have been written by Ed Miliband.

With such a small majority I hope it was not just rhetoric, for her words will have distressed some of her very right-wing MPs.

I am delighted she has rid us of George Osborne, John Whittingdale, Michael Gove and Nicky Morgan.

Furthermore it was a masterstroke giving Brexit responsibility to Brexiteers Boris Johnson, David Davis and Liam Fox. Like saying: "You won it, now run it."

Quite a few headaches for them proffering the end of their careers.

Remainers, fancy a Euro Super State?

WITH almost three weeks since the referendum, I haven't yet heard or read anyone who voted to remain admit they support the EU's political ambition to achieve a Federal Europe.

With this in mind, the Remainers must very much be looking forward to the day the UK becomes a province of the European Super State.

PAUL WEARS IT WELL FOR ROD SHOW

By Pat Higgins
features@yellowad.co.uk

RIP-ROARING stage show Some Guys Have All The Luck, celebrating the career of Rod Stewart – one of rock's greatest stars – is coming to the Cliffs Pavilion at the end of this month.

The tribute production launched in 2015, Rod's 70th birthday year, and charts his life from busker to international superstar.

Paul Metcalfe gets into the persona of the legendary singer in an almost uncanny way.

Rod's brother Don, commented after seeing Paul's performance: "I've seen some Rods in my time but Paul's is the best I've ever seen," and the singer's fan club leader Mike Walton, said it was "stunning .. brilliant".

Paul turns in a charismatic performance, capturing the distinctive vocals, swaggering showmanship and sheer fun that have made Stewart one of the most loved performers of all time.

The show includes all the hits from Stewart's incredible career, classic rockers like Maggie May, Baby Jane and Da 'Ya' Think I'm Sexy? through to ballads such as Sailing, You're In My Heart, and Tonight's The Night (It's Gonna Be Alright), as well as favourites from his days with the Faces such as Stay With Me and Twistin' The Night Away and Motown tunes from the album Soulbook.

During his career Stewart had six consecutive number one albums in the UK, 62 hit singles – 31 in the top 10 and six at number one.

Some Guys Have All The Luck is at the Cliffs Pavilion on Sunday, July 31, at 7.30pm.

Tickets £25, £24 and £19 from the box office on 01702 351135 or online at southendtheatres.org.uk.

Captain's slog in new mission

STAR TREK BEYOND
(12A, 122 mins)

DEDICATED to Anton Yelchin, who died in a freak accident in June, and the late Leonard Nimoy, the third instalment of the rebooted Star Trek is a familiar conflation of past and future present that fails to set its phasers to stun.

JJ Abrams vacated the director's chair to make Star Wars: The Force Awakens, so Justin Lin, who helmed four turbo-charged entries of The Fast and The Furious franchise, steps into the fray.

He orchestrates action set pieces with confidence although some of the interstellar skirmishes are reduced to a dizzying blur by gyroscopic camerawork and overly enthusiastic editing.

In 3D and IMAX, the giddy whirl will be even more disorienting.

Scriptwriters Simon Pegg and Doug Jung stoke up the comedic ante with a slew of wry one-liners and they complement one outlandish set piece with a deafening blast of the Beastie Boys' 1994 hip-hop anthem, Sabotage.

"Is that classical music?" quips chief medical officer Dr Leonard McCoy (Karl Urban) over the cacophony.

Refreshingly, Sulu's sexuality is addressed without politically correct fanfare, propelling the adventures of Captain James T Kirk and his embattled crew into a 21st century, which believes that strength comes from cultural unity.

CREW: John Cho plays Sulu, Anton Yelchin is Chekov, Karl Urban plays Bones, Chris Pine is Kirk, Zachary Quinto plays Spock and Simon Pegg is Scotty

The crew of the Enterprise are three years into their five-year mission to boldly go where the cult 1960s TV show went before, without the benefit of expensive digital effects.

Kirk (Chris Pine) is considering relinquishing the bridge because "things have started to feel a little... episodic".

He keeps his plans secret from the rest of the crew including science officer Spock (Zachary Quinto), communications officer Uhura (Zoe Saldana), navigator Pavel Chekov (Yelchin), chief engineer Montgomery Scott (Simon Pegg) and helmsman Sulu (John Cho).

During a visit to a Federation starbase under the control of Commodore Paris (Shohreh Aghdashloo), an alien called Kalara (Lydia Wilson) issues a distress call to help recover her ship, which has crash-landed on a planet in a distant nebula.

Kirk and the team respond and subsequently come under attack from an otherworldly despot called Krall (Idris Elba) and his swarming drones.

While the Enterprise crew forges an alliance with feisty alien warrior Jaylah (Sofia Boutella), Kirk holds firm to his moral compass, defiantly informing Krall that it's "better to die saving lives than to live taking them".

Star Trek Beyond dodges the curse of misfiring odd-numbered films in the series, but the flaws are obvious.

Pine, Quinto and co are solid in roles that lack dramatic meat and don't progress the characters over two hours, and a flimsy, contrived plot resolves potential conflict with minimum blood, sweat and tears.

Throughout, the script affirms the need for the multi-species crew to stick together in times of adversity.

At least the utopian vision of original series creator Gene Roddenberry is in rude health.

Epping Ongar Railway

STEP back in time and feel the romance of travelling in bygone times, passing beautiful countryside, scenery and historic towns. We are the longest heritage railway in Essex, the closest to London and easily accessible by Tube.

The railway really has so much to offer, from vintage buses starting from the front door of Epping and Shenfield stations, to heritage steam and diesel-hauled trains.

We recently held a Behind the Scenes Weekend to demonstrate the range of volunteer activities available such as restoring the carriages, maintaining track and keeping the stations in pristine condition. You'll feel a part of something special and rewarding and may even find yourself working with something that is 100 years old!

You can also volunteer by selling tickets, helping passengers onto the train and more.

It is a great opportunity to meet new people, and there is always something you can do at Epping Ongar Railway.

But that's not all, it also holds events you can attend while you visit.

The Poppadum Prairie Dining Train is on July 23 – enjoy a curry on the rails, and the Real Ale Weekend from July 29-31 has more than 60 ales to sample, while Chase and Marshall from Nickelodeon's Paw Patrol will visit from August 6-7.

No visit to the railway would be complete without going into the gift shops at Ongar or North Weald. A friendly volunteer team will be pleased to welcome and assist you whatever you need. With refreshments available at a range of facilities and additional places to visit surrounding the railway, you'll never be bored, and may even have the time of your life.

You can buy tickets online in advance, from the bus conductor on the heritage bus (from Epping or Shenfield) or from the booking office at Ongar or North Weald stations.

Do not hesitate to contact us by email on enquiries@eorailway.co.uk; call 01277 365 200; via Facebook Epping Ongar Railway and Twitter @eorailway (9am to 5pm every day. Emergency calls only outside of these times please). Or see for yourself at Epping Ongar Railway, Ongar Station, Station Approach, Ongar, Essex, CM5 9BN.

Rope Runners

THE award-winning high ropes park and adventure centre – hidden away next door to "Essex's best kept secret" – is the place to go to test yourself and team-mates in challenging and vigorous activities in the air!

Do you like heights, or solving problems alone or together? Then you need Rope Runners! It was founded by Kevin and Jo Ellis, a husband and wife team who discovered parours in France. Upon opening they said: "We loved it, our kids loved it and we were hooked, so we decided to set one up near our home."

The pole-based Adventure Course in the tree tops is one of many activities on offer.

Whether you want to challenge yourself on the High Ropes Course, try your aim at archery or use air rifles, there is something for everyone.

There is also a variety of group activities for schools and colleges, hens and stags, corporate groups and birthday parties. So much fun for everyone!

And the fun doesn't stop there. They host a range of sessions for you to try your hand at such as the Ropes Course Session – where you test your nerve with six different courses on three different levels. At the end you finish with a big thrill on a zip wire and fan descend, if you dare! If you don't have time to do the whole course then you can take part in the Zip, Climb or Jump activity for £5. Wristbands are also on offer from a price of £18.

Rope Runners' philosophy is to encourage people to participate fully in high ropes adventure. Instructors are all fully practised in rescue techniques but they will encourage clients to solve problems for themselves while out on the adventure courses.

People are always on hand to give advice if required. So, staying fit and healthy does not have to be boring. Forget jogging in the park or swimming at your local pool, try something different to get you out of the house and getting some exercise. Try Rope Runners!

Win tickets for Fifty Shades of Burlesque

THE producers of the UK's biggest touring burlesque show – An Evening of Burlesque – bring the traditional art form up to date with an all-new theatre show at the Towngate, Basildon.

Fifty Shades of Burlesque promises to take burlesque “to the next, spine-tin-gling level”.

Show producer Michael Taylor said: “Now it's time to take all of its elements – elegance, classic beauty, couture costumes and exotic themes – and bring it well and truly into the 21st century.”

Special guest is Christian Lee, who has appeared on TV's Britain's Got Talent.

Michael describes Fifty Shades of Burlesque as “vaudeville gone volatile”.

“Burlesque all-stars drawn from across the world appear as never seen before,” he added. “It's the hottest, most provocative extravaganza ever to grace the stage.”

The show on Friday, August 26 starts at 7.30pm and is strictly over-18s only.

There is a prize for the most outrageously dressed member of the audience. The Yellow Advertiser is giving lucky readers the chance to win FIVE pairs of tickets to see the show.

Auction House declares 'business as usual', despite Brexit uncertainty

The UK's largest residential property auctioneer Auction House – which has a branch in Essex – says that uncertainty surrounding the EU referendum had very little impact on sales, and is reporting a performance level close to last year.

The group's June figures were similar to those in 2015, with 252 lots sold (only 8 fewer than last year) but at a noticeably better success rate of 81% (a 4% increase on last year's result). The statistics for the first six months of 2016 indicate a rise across the board compared to the same period last year, with 1,513 lots sold out of 1,959 lots offered (a success rate of 77.2%), raising a total of £208.6m.

Commenting on the data, Director- Andrew Stallard said: "Despite economic uncertainties brought about by the forthcoming referendum vote, the June auction market was 'business as usual' in most areas. In fact, a total of five of our sales that month reported a 100% success rate. We are a results-based business and our level of performance continues to impress.

"Our key strength lies in affordable volume stock in the regions, where people tend to buy for a purpose rather than a profit. So we predict that these areas will be least affected by any fall-out from Brexit that may follow."

Andrew accepted that challenging times lay ahead, but suggested that any negative impact could be short-lived, provided that availability of mortgages remains and interest rates stay stable.

He explained: "Auction House entries for July are steady, with the total projected to be only 5% down on last year. We are now trading in a climate of opportunity and I expect the repercussions of Brexit to be quickly accommodated.

"No doubt there are uncertainties on the horizon, which means that we will witness a period of reflection. Top end residential and high ticket commercial lots are likely to be hit hardest, with London set to find conditions the most challenging of all.

"Nevertheless, in the auction sector, any rebalancing tends to happen rather quickly – so we would expect Auction House numbers to regain their previous level by the Autumn."

Peugeot's new fun-packed 2008

By Peter Hayward

IT'S rare that I drive a new model that so surpasses the one it replaces that it seems in another league.

But the new Peugeot 2008 with its stronger, more purposeful look and huge range of plus points, is just such a beast.

I would not have believed that the 1.2-litre turbo petrol I drove could deliver such performance along with excellent economy.

The three-cylinder turbo is available with 110bhp, but this one had the more powerful 130bhp version and it's a gem.

There are also two versions of the improved 1.6 diesel in the range but, if you enjoy your driving, the petrol is the one.

I said when I first drove a car with this little power unit that it would be marvellous in a smaller body and it most certainly is.

It's delightfully smooth and wonderfully tuneful, revving sweetly whenever needed.

But it will also pull happily from low revs in fifth and sixth gears and deliver real acceleration remarkable quickly.

The combination makes it a joy to use and, in this car, absolutely superb.

There's always enough power for overtaking or pressing on and I just couldn't get enough of it.

CRACKING: The Peugeot 2008 1.2 PureTech GT Line

The new model is wider, longer and taller than the 208 it's based on, with a raised ride height giving excellent ground clearance.

It's not a proper off-roader because drive is only to the front wheels, but it can be had with Peugeot's Grip Control system, which helps give best traction in snow, mud or on grass. In that it's the same as many crossovers like the Nissan Qashqai and Mazda CX-3, except that those two-wheel-drive versions don't have such electronic help.

The high stance of the Peugeot 2008 helps give a comfortable ride on the road, soaking up everything at slow speeds and also out on rougher open roads.

But it's also good through the corners, with fine balance, excellent grip and not much roll. Peugeot has listened to owners and changed the dials so that they now both sweep clockwise instead of one going anti-clockwise – always a strange idea.

The high driving position is comfortable and gives a great view all round, rear legroom is very good and the boot is huge.

The GT-Line I drove comes with parking sensors, reversing camera, sat nav, alarm, drilled metal-look pedals, remote locking, climate, sun roof, leather and cloth seats with red stitching, leather covered steering wheel and sombre-looking black alloys.

Overall, the new 2008 is hugely impressive – a cracking car.

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking have analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at 500 econometric models, across a five-year period and discovered that adding newspapers dramatically increases the return on investment of other media.

Over half were service companies who saw the effectiveness of their TV advertising double, ROI of their overall campaigns treble and their online digital display enjoy a four-fold increase.

Individual categories also saw impressive results.

Automotive campaigns clocked a 70% increase. In travel, effectiveness trebled. In retail it leapt by 2.8 times. And most remarkable of all, in the financial category, Benchmarking uncovered an increase of 5.7 times.

So, whatever business you are in, you should be in the newspapers.

BIG SAM IS THE MAN SAYS BROWN

Blues boss supports Allardyce for England job

Football

By Brian Jeeves

sport@yellowad.co.uk

SOUTHEND UNITED manager Phil Brown believes Sam Allardyce is the right man to restore the nation's pride following England's dismal showing at the European Championships in France.

Brown, who worked under Allardyce at both Blackpool and Bolton Wanderers, is confident the former West Ham United boss ticks all the relevant boxes.

"I think it's his for the taking," he told Yellow Sport.

"If an Englishman is the criteria, which I believe it should be, then Sam is the main man for the England job. If he does get the job, I think he'll be the right man to arrest the situation that we are in at this moment in time.

"We have lost our identity, our passion, our ability to play against weaker and stronger opposition. All of that was quite evident in the Euros.

"It's time for a strong character, and you can't get a stronger character than Sam Allardyce."

And the Blues boss thinks Allardyce could have been handed the job far earlier, saying: "As far as I'm concerned he was the prime candidate in 2005, when Steve McClaren got it.

"Sam had his head turned away from Bolton and went to Newcastle, which was big time in comparison. That put his England credentials on the line.

"That was a bit of a failing from a personal perspective because he was sacked after eight months. But if you look back at it, and look at Newcastle's plight after Sam was sacked, then as far as I'm concerned there was only one loser, and that was Newcastle United."

Brown added: "He's been at Blackburn, Bolton and Newcastle, clubs that he's left with a legacy. Unfortunately, nobody has been able to carry that on. Consequently, all three clubs were relegated.

"If you analyse that with his West Ham performance, he is probably the most experienced manager in English football at Premier League standard."

FAVOURITE: Sam Allardyce

Double makes Bannister king of Castle

Motorsport

THE BRSCC Fiesta Championship title came one step closer to Essex after Basildon racer Luke Bannister took back-to-back wins at Castle Combe at the weekend.

Bannister laid down the gauntlet in impressive style in qualifying by taking pole position in class B of the championship by three seconds ahead of his closest rival.

In the first race Bannister led a lights-to-flag finish to secure his third win of the season in his debut year on the track despite his rivals snapping at his wheels. A close fought contest saw him secure victory by just one tenth of a second.

In the second race of the day the 27-year-old used the experience of the first to help him secure another victory, extending his winning margin to five seconds over second place to secure his fourth win of the season.

With just three meetings to go – Silverstone, Anglesey and Brands Hatch – Bannister has further extended his lead in the class B championship.

He said he was delighted with his double win success.

He said: "Getting two more wins at this stage of the championship is fantastic.

"I just need to look towards the end result now and continue to score to help me towards the championship.

"I need to make sure I keep scoring points because the racing has been so close. Just one mistake could flip the championship on its head."

WIN: Two victories for Matthew Bannister at Castle Combe

Non-league round-up

Chelmsford prove too hot for Hammers

By Brian Jeeves

CHELMSFORD CITY continued their impressive pre-season form with an eye-catching 2-0 victory over a West Ham United XI at the Melbourne Stadium.

The Hammers included Michail Antonio and new signing from Manchester United, Ashley Fletcher, in their starting line-up. But second half goals from Jake Reid and a stunner from Max Cornhill earned the Claret a notable win.

National League Dagenham & Redbridge hit four second half goals as they stepped up their preparations with a 4-0 victory over a hard working Romford side at Ship Lane.

Hawkins, Assombalonga with a penalty, Maguire-Drew and Keir Dickson all struck after the break, with Daggers manager John Still hugely encouraged by his sides second half showing.

Following the postponement of their match with Southend United at Cressing Road, Braintree Town swiftly arranged an alternative fixture at Thurlow Nunn Eastern Counties League outfit Stanway Rovers.

And it was the Iron who came out on top, with Barnard, Turner and Galliford on target in a 3-1 success for Jamie Day's side. Tom Stephen's last minute strike earned National League South side Concord Rangers a 1-1 draw at Folkestone Invicta.

Ryman Premier League outfit Grays Athletic have announced the signing of Harry Watkins from Braintree Town. The defender, who spent successful loan spells at Canvey Island and Ilford, links up with Jamie Stuart's men after being made available by the Iron. Previously he had played in the youth academies of both Chelsea and Arsenal.

Speaking to the Grays official website, Watkins said: "It's a pleasure to be part of this new era at Grays Athletic, and with the manager showing his interest in me after just two training sessions, I know this is the place for me.

"Jamie's coaching is also a big factor in me deciding to join. I can't wait to roll my sleeves up and get going."

Martin Tuohy grabbed the only goal as Canvey Island edged out fancied Ryman League Division One South outfit Greenwich Borough. A healthy crowd of 206 were in attendance for a highly competitive pre-season fixture at Park Lane.

Grays Athletic opened their pre-season preparations with a 5-0 win over Essex Senior League side Hullbridge Sports. Sam Baffour (penalty), Daniel Ajakale, Alvin Macauley, Jamie Stuart and a trialist found the net for the Blues.

Ryman League Division One North outfit, Maldon & Tiptree, have switched their two remaining home friendly matches away from their Park Dive ground.

The Jammers were due to face Wivenhoe Town and Stansted at their 22-year-old home. But now the matches with take place at Colchester United's Florence Park training ground in Tiptree with free admission to all supporters.

Dates for the fixtures remain the same and are Saturday, July 23, Wivenhoe Town (3pm) and Saturday, July 30, Stansted (3pm).

A brace from Jay Nash and one from Leon Gordon saw Great Woking Rovers recover from 2-0 down to beat East Thurrock United by three goals to two at Burroughs Park.

Earlier, James Walker and Darren Foxley had given the National League South side what appeared to be an unsailable advantage.

Essex Senior Leaguers Ilford have announced the signings of Sypho Mytanda, Connor Lane, Eden Nelson, Joe Killingback, Ricki Mackin and Robbie Farrell.

Foxes manager Allan Fenn is keen to build on last season's sixth place finish and told Yellow Sport: "I'm delighted with the quality we are bringing in."
